

Design Build Professional Program

Smart homes are now, more than ever, a huge part of the property world. We created the Crestron Design Build Program (DBP) to guide you through the complex landscape of smart home products and solutions and demonstrate why Crestron, the choice of the world's smartest and premium homes, should be your choice to deliver a new level of convenience, comfort, and security to your clients' lifestyle.

The Crestron DBP is free to join and offers a host of benefits:

- Education on how Crestron technology fits seamlessly with your interior and building design projects
- CEU courses
- Invitations to exclusive events
- Referral incentive of 5% of retail value earned on qualified projects
- 75% off MRSP* on Crestron products for your office, showroom, or home.

*Product value up to $15,000 MSRP

Enhance your clients' lifestyle – and your bottom line

Ready to join? It's easy!

1. To qualify for a membership in the Crestron Design Build Partner Program, applicant's profession must be at least one of the following: Architect, Builder, Developer, Electrical Engineer, Interior Designer, or Lighting Designer
2. Go to www.crestron.com/dbp and complete the Design Build Professional Contact Form.
3. You'll receive a Crestron DBP agreement that provides the guidelines for participation in the program (you'll be asked to provide your official design credentials, and W9 as part of the process)
4. Once on-boarded, you can begin to register your projects via a simple registration form
5. Crestron will partner you with a certified Crestron Technology Professional in your area.

As part of this agreement, you'll be required to attend an annual educational seminar to ensure you're fully up to speed on the latest Crestron technology.

- State-of-the-art design tools
- Preferred access to Crestron Design Showrooms worldwide
- Referrals from Crestron Technology Professionals
- Dedicated Crestron business development manager who'll help you maximize your program membership
- Full support, backing, and pioneering innovation from the most trusted and recognized brand in smart home technology
